

Psychological Compatibility of Football Players According to Success Achievement and Failure Avoidance Motivation

Authors : Konstantin A. Bocharov, Alexandra O. Savinkina

Abstract : The study analyzed the relationship between the homogeneity-heterogeneity of players in a football team and their efficiency. Compatible players were examined in terms of level of socio-psychological development of the team for which they act. It was shown that in teams of high level of socio-psychological development more compatible were athletes with different levels of failure avoidance motivation. But in low-level teams – bucking the trend. The homogeneity of success achievement motivation was not a factor in the effectiveness of the football team.

Keywords : compatibility, failure avoidance motivation, football, heterogeneity, homogeneity, soccer, sport team, success achievement motivation

Conference Title : ICSSF 2017 : International Conference on Sport Science and Football

Conference Location : Barcelona, Spain

Conference Dates : May 26-27, 2017