I. INTRODUCTION

ISLAM was established as a minority faith in Thailand with an estimated 10 million believers [1]. Popular opinion seems to hold that a vast Muslim minority is found in the three southern provinces of Thailand. However, research from the Thai Ministry of Foreign Affairs indicates that only 18% of Thai Muslims live in those three provinces. The rest are scattered throughout the country, with the largest concentrations being in Bangkok.

The pillars of the Islamic religion are Iman (faith), Ibadat (practice) and Ishan (ethics).

Iman (faith) consists of six articles of belief; belief in God (Allah); belief in all the prophets (nabi) and messengers (rusul); belief in the angels (mala'ika); belief in the Quran and the holy books (kutub); belief in the day of judgement (qiyama) and in the resurrection (life after death); and belief in destiny (quadar).

Ibadat (practices) consist of five pillars of Islam, the term given to the five duties incumbent upon every Muslim. These duties are Shahada (profession of faith), Salah (prayers), Zakah (giving of alms), Sawm (fasting during Ramadan) and Haji (pilgrimage to Mecca).

Furthermore every Muslim must follow the ethic (Ishan). One of Ishan is Halal; the laws regarding which foods can and cannot be eaten and also on the proper method of slaughtering an animal for consumption. All Muslims have to observe the Halal. A variety of substances are considered as harmful (haram) for humans to consume and forbidden according to Qur'anic verses: pork (Qu'ran 2:173), blood (Qu'ran 2:173): all carnivorous and birds of prey, alcohol and other intoxicants (Qu'ran 5:90), food over which Allah's name is not pronounced (Qu'ran 6:121) etc. Halal and Haram are universal terms that apply to all facets of life. They are especially related to food products, food ingredients and food contact materials and cosmetics and products of personal care [2]; as on Table I.

In Thailand, Halal products are presented to the public with packaging of a general character. Halal products are represented with a Halal mark but without any Muslim characters such as brand name, visual, graphic and symbolic, Islamic mood and tone. Furthermore, there is not any advertisement for Thai Halal products. One of the causes is; Islam is a minority faith in Thailand with an estimated 10 million believers. Many of Thai Muslims cook their Halal food themselves or purchase local Halal products which non Islamic sign package from the Muslim community. However most of Thai Muslims purchase by seeking the Halal mark by only trust in their seller. It is for these reasons that Halal advertising seems to be unnecessary and not worth the investment.

In the present, Thai consumers are more complicated. There is a wide gap in age, gender, occupation, social class, lifestyle, culture and religion. The lifestyles of Thai Muslim consumers can be categorized into 9 groups [3]: 1) Modern life group 2) Information exposure group 3) Religious group 4) Self concern and social care group 5) Sporty and challenge group 6) Cyber and friend group 7) High vision and brand name group 8) Home sweet home group 9) Enjoy life and open minded group. These different lifestyles are encouragement to propaganda Thai Halal products. This is an opportunity to setup a niche market for Thai Muslim consumer, and respond to their emotional needs.

Creative execution refers to the manner in which an advertising appeal was carried out or presented. It is a way to present advertisement messages and stimulates consumer appeal. Creative executions are executed from the standpoint of both art and text. They are delivering the big idea in both verbal and non verbal forms of communication. Some of commonly creative execution techniques are [4]; 1) Use straight-sell or factual message 2) Use scientific or technical evidence 3) Demonstration 4) Comparison 5) Testimonials 6) Use a story as a slice of life 7) Animation 8) Personality symbol 9) Fantasy visual 10) Dramatization 11) Humor 12) Combinations of all.

The marketing strategy consist of 4 essential elements for brand building process that focus on different aspects of the product [5]; 1) Benefit; the characteristics of the product with its benefit such as taste, smell and texture or other function, production process, story of the manufacturer, production standard and trust, non chemical residues. 2) Attribute; the exterior images that attract to consumer such as brand name, characters of text, logos, colors, image of packaging, an advertising, public relations, image of retailer and shop, the QR code, barcode or industry standard code, standard proof mark, food and drug secure proof mark and Halal products mark. 3) Value; the value of products that affect to consumers perception such as valuable, reliable, concern to environment and community, originality, legends, the exquisite luxury. 4) Personality; reflection of consumers thought. The Personality feedback to them after they were consumes the product, such as modern look, teenager look, progressive thinking, futurism look, urbanism look, multi cultures lover, sport man or girl, extreme activity generation.

“A brand is a name, team, sign, symbol or design or a combination of them, which is intended to identify the goods or services of one seller or group of sellers and differentiate them from those of competitors
A brand can deliver up to four levels of meaning: attributes, benefits, values, personality. If a company treats a brand only as a name, it misses the point of branding” [6]

Creative branding is a way to setting corporate identity. Cause to sustainable the products, services and value added. Strong organization could be further more development, widely competitive in all situations and all regions.
