

Changing Landscape of International Law of Governance: 'One Belt One Road Initiative' as a Case Study

Authors : Tikumporn Rodkhunmuang

Abstract : The importance of 'international law of governance' is the means and end to deal with international affairs. This research paper seeks to first study the historical development of international law of governance from the classical period of the international legal framework of global governance until the contemporary period of its framework. Second, the international law of governance is extremely turning into the crucial point in its long history because of the changing of China's foreign policies towards 'One Belt One Road Initiative'. Third, the proposing model of the existing international law of governance within Chinese characteristics will be the new rules and modalities of modern diplomacy and governed international affairs. Methodologically speaking, this research paper is conducting under mixed methods research, which are also included numerical analysis and theoretical considerations. As a result, this research paper is the critical point of the international legal framework of global governance that changing the diplomatic paradigm as well as turning China into a great-power in international politics. So, this research paper is useful for international legal scholars and diplomats for slightly changing their understanding of the rapidly changing their norms from western norms to the eastern norms of international law. Therefore, the outcome of the research is the modern model of China to make a diplomatic relationship with other countries in the global society.

Keywords : global governance, international law, landscape, one belt one road

Conference Title : ICGLJG 2020 : International Conference on Global Law, Justice and Governance

Conference Location : Tokyo, Japan

Conference Dates : June 11-12, 2020