

Design Architecture Anti-Corruption Commission (KPK) According to KPK Law: Strong or Weak?

Authors : Moh Rizaldi, Ali Abdurachman, Indra Perwira

Abstract : The biggest demonstration after the 1998 reforms that took place in Indonesia for several days at the end of 2019 did not eliminate the intention of the People's Representative Council (Dewan Perwakilan Rakyat or DPR) and the President to enact the law 19 of 2019 (KPK law). There is a central issue to be highlighted, namely whether the change is intended to strengthen or even weaken the KPK. To achieve this goal, the Analysis focuses on two agency principles namely the independent principle and the control principle as seen from three things namely the legal substance, legal structure, and legal culture. The research method is normative with conceptual, historical and statute approaches. The argument from this writing is that KPK Law has cut most of the KPK's authority as a result the KPK has become symbolic or toothless in combating corruption.

Keywords : control, independent, KPK, law no. 19 of 2019

Conference Title : ICTAC 2020 : International Conference on Transparency and Anti-Corruption

Conference Location : Singapore, Singapore

Conference Dates : November 19-20, 2020