

Building in-Addition-School-Family Partnership

Authors : Lulu Sun

Abstract : In Addition is an after-school mathematics program in which students and their parents build mathematical confidence and competence by solving problems they curious about. It is a program consists of mix-grade from 4th to 6th grade of 10 to 20 students, including math problem solving and other activities. This partnership will focus on the relationship between the In-Addition and the parents' engagement; in this kind of partnership, it has the In-Addition program teaching and the family engagement. This partnership is purpose to building cooperation between the program and parents, strengthening the links between the program and families.

Keywords : program-family, family engagement, positive bias, partnership

Conference Title : ICCMO 2021 : International Conference on Community Management and Organization

Conference Location : Sydney, Australia

Conference Dates : May 17-18, 2021