

The Role Of Data Gathering In NGOs

Authors : Hussaini Garba Mohammed

Abstract : Background/Significance: The lack of data gathering is affecting NGOs world-wide in general to have good data information about educational and health related issues among communities in any country and around the world. For example, HIV/AIDS smoking (Tuberculosis diseases) and COVID-19 virus carriers is becoming a serious public health problem, especially among old men and women. But there is no full details data survey assessment from communities, villages, and rural area in some countries to show the percentage of victims and patients, especial with this world COVID-19 virus among the people. These data are essential to inform programming targets, strategies, and priorities in getting good information about data gathering in any society.

Keywords : reliable information, data assessment, data mining, data communication

Conference Title : ICTCSDM 2022 : International Conference on Theoretical Computer Science and Discrete Mathematics

Conference Location : Jeddah, Saudi Arabia

Conference Dates : February 17-18, 2022