

Factors Associated with Peer Assessment of Writing Skills among Foreign Languages Students

Authors : Marian Lissett Olaya

Abstract : This article examined the factors associated with incorporating peer assessment into English language classes in a public university in Colombia. This is done in the context of writing English class for 4th-semester students. The research instruments consisted of peer assessment questionnaires, student diaries, and interviews. Findings showed that among the factors, motivation, frustration, anxiety, and lack of confidence appeared. Data revealed that peer assessment enables students to write competencies through training, teachers' guidance, and the provision of a collaborative environment.

Keywords : writing skills, peer assessment, formative assessment, language acquisition

Conference Title : ICBLA 2023 : International Conference on Bilingualism and Language Acquisition

Conference Location : Boston, United States

Conference Dates : April 17-18, 2023