

Attitudes towards Bilingualism: The Case of Cameroon

Authors : Patricia W. Ngassa

Abstract : Language attitude is an area arousing the interest of linguists who are continuously discovering new methods of detecting attitudes. This paper problematizes Cameroonians' alleged tendency of neglecting home languages and considering Bilingualism in borrowed languages as more important. 30 questionnaires were used to know attitudes of parents towards bilingualism and our home languages. Results revealed that our borrowed official languages are considered more important than home languages.

Keywords : bilingualism, mother tongue, Cameroon, official language

Conference Title : ICFLTAL 2014 : International Conference on Foreign Language Teaching and Applied Linguistics

Conference Location : Cape Town, South Africa

Conference Dates : November 06-07, 2014