

Form and Content in Adonis Durado's Poesy: Integrated Teaching Guide

Authors : Angen May T. Fabro

Abstract : This study analyzed how the form and content in Adonis Durado's select poems revealed universal realities for a proposed integrated teaching guide. The study employed discourse analysis that generates verbal interpretation of data to answer the variables under study in order to satisfy the main problem. This method used analyses and interpretations of discourse texts of the literary work under study. This research made use of studies and research investigations relevant to the present investigation. Findings of the study showed that form and content play a significant role in identifying the universal realities found in the select poems of Adonis Durado.
