

Human Trafficking and Prostitution in Amsterdam

Authors : Isabel Roiz, Alejandra Cossio

Abstract : This essay will talk about the problems of forced prostitution, human trafficking, and sexual exploitation in the Netherlands. This work conveys information from different sources stating the numbers and statistics of human trafficking throughout Europe and the different types of sexual exploitation as well as the means used for coercing victims into this illegal net. The research aims to inform and compare the way this business is handled and the ways used by criminals to lure and retain victims in spite of the law. It also tries to compare the laws in the Netherlands and Sweden regarding prostitution affects the illegal migration problems and how they change the ways those who work as prostitutes are treated. The aim of the paper is to take all of these aspects into consideration and reach a decision of what laws would most beneficiate the victims.

Keywords : human trafficking, prostitution, laws of migration, Amsterdam

Conference Title : ICICC 2015 : International Conference on Identity, Culture and Communication

Conference Location : Paris, France

Conference Dates : June 25-26, 2015