

Developing a Group Guidance Framework: A Review of Literature

Authors : Abdul Rawuf Hussein, Rusnani Abdul Kadir, Mona Adlina Binti Adanan

Abstract : Guidance program has been an essential approach in helping professions from many institutions of learning as well as communities, organizations, and clinical settings. Although the term varies depending on the approaches, objectives, and theories, the core and central element is typically developmental in nature. In this conceptual paper, the researcher will review literature on the concept of group guidance, its impact on students' and individual's development, developing a guidance module and proposing a synthesised framework for group guidance program.

Keywords : concept, framework, group guidance, module development
