

Counselling Families with Special Needs Children: Problems and Prospect: A Case Study of Calabar Metropolis in Cross River State

Authors : Anthonia Emmanuel Inaja

Abstract : The role of the counseling services by Special Educators, Guidance Counsellors and psychologists alike to Families and Parents of children with special needs cannot be over-emphasized. This paper examined the vital role of counseling services and its impact on the emotional and physical readiness of parents to initiate and support the education and rehabilitation needs of their children. The paper considered the importance of counseling, when counseling services are best required preparing the mindset of parents and family members as well as the immediate community of the social needs child.

Keywords : counseling, families, special, needs, children, problems, prospect

Conference Title : ICICC 2015 : International Conference on Identity, Culture and Communication

Conference Location : Montreal, Canada

Conference Dates : May 11-12, 2015