

Status Report of the Express Delivery Industry in China

Authors : Ying Bo Xie, Hisa Yuki Kurokawa

Abstract : Due to the fast development, China's express delivery industry has involved in a dilemma that the service quality are keeping decreasing while the construction rate of delivery network cannot meet the customers' demand. In order to get out of this dilemma and enjoy a succession development rate, it is necessary to understand the current situation of China's express delivery industry. Firstly, the evolution of China's express delivery industry was systematical presented. Secondly, according to the number of companies and the amount of parcels they has dealt each year, the merits and faults of tow kind of operating pattern was analyzed. Finally, based on the characteristics of these express companies, the problems of China's express delivery industry was divided into several types and the countermeasures were given out respectively.

Keywords : China, express delivery industry, status, problem

Conference Title : ICEMIS 2015 : International Conference on Economics and Management Information Systems

Conference Location : Barcelona, Spain

Conference Dates : October 26-27, 2015