

Theoretical Aspects and Practical Approach in the Research of the Human Capital of Student Volunteer Community

Authors : Kalinina Anatasiiia, Pevnaya Mariya

Abstract : The article concerns theoretical basis in the research of student volunteering, identifies references of student volunteering as a social community, classifies human capital indicators of student volunteers. Also there are presented the results of research of 450 student volunteers in Russia concerning the correlation between international volunteering and indicators of human capital of youth. Findings include compared characteristics of human capital of “potential” and “real” international student volunteers. Factor analysis revealed two categories of active students categories of active students.

Keywords : human capital, international volunteering, student volunteering, social community, youth volunteering, youth politics

Conference Title : ICSS 2016 : International Conference on Social Sciences

Conference Location : Paris, France

Conference Dates : January 21-22, 2016