

Ways for Improving Citation of the Cyrillic Publications

Authors : Victoria Y. Garnova, Vladimir G. Merzlikin, Denis G. Yakovlev, Andrei A. Amelenkov, Sergey V. Khudyakov

Abstract : Assessment of novelty of studies submitted in Russian publications is given by the method citation analysis to identify scientific research with a high degree of innovation. This may be the basis of recommendations for subjects new joint projects setting of the RF and the EU. Apart from not the best rating of Russian publications (may even its lack) current IT ensure open access to the WEB-sites of these journals that make possible own expertise selective rapid assessment of the advanced developments in Russia by interested foreign investors. Cited foreign literature in Russian journals can become the subject of study to determine the innovative attractiveness of scientific research on the background a specific future-proof abroad. Authors introduced: (1) linguistic impact factor Li-f of journals for describing the share of publications in the majority language; (2) linguistic citation index Lact characterizing the significance of scientific research and linguistic top ones Ltop for evaluation of the spectral width of citing of foreign journals.

Keywords : citation analysis, linguistic citation indexes, linguistic impact factor, innovative projects

Conference Title : ICESET 2015 : International Conference on Environmental Systems Engineering and Technology

Conference Location : Paris, France

Conference Dates : August 27-28, 2015