

Sex Education for Children with Special Needs

Authors : Nefrijanti Sutikno

Abstract : This paper highlights puberty and sexuality on children with special needs (SNC) in which they are very vulnerable to child sexual abuse (CSA). By providing sufficient knowledge and skill to teachers, they can synergise with parents to better anticipate, prevent and reduce the possibility of CSA and when it has already happened, together they are able to provide proper support and assistance to the victims of CSA.

Keywords : Special Needs Children (SNC), puberty, sexuality, child sexual abuse (CSA), prevention of CSA, anticipation of CSA

Conference Title : ICSE 2016 : International Conference on Special Education

Conference Location : Zurich, Switzerland

Conference Dates : July 21-22, 2016