

Communicative Language between Doctors and Patients in Healthcare

Authors : Anita Puspawati

Abstract : A failure in obtaining informed consent from patient occurs because there is not effective communication skill in doctors. Therefore, the language is very important in communication between doctor and patient. This study uses descriptive analysis method, that is a method used mainly in researching the status of a group of people, an object, a condition, a system of thought or a class of events in the present. The result of this study indicates that the communicative language between doctors and patients will increase the trust of patients to their doctors and accordingly, patients will provide the informed consent voluntarily.

Keywords : communicative, language, doctor, patient

Conference Title : ICMHCP 2016 : International Conference on Medicine, Health Care and Philosophy

Conference Location : Amsterdam, Netherlands

Conference Dates : May 12-13, 2016