Experience Report about the Inclusion of People with Disabilities in the Process of Testing an Accessible System for Learning Management

Authors : Marcos Devaner, Marcela Alves, Cledson Braga, Fabiano Alves, Wilton Bezerra
Abstract : This article discusses the inclusion of people with disabilities in the process of testing an accessible system solution for distance education. The accessible system, team profile, methodologies and techniques covered in the testing process are presented. The testing process shown in this paper was designed from the experience with user. The testing process emerged from lessons learned from past experiences and the end user is present at all stages of the tests. Also, lessons learned are reported and how it was possible the maturing of the team and the methods resulting in a simple, productive and effective process.