

Territory and Well-Being: Qualitative Insights from the Morvan (Burgandy, France)

Authors : Gaël Brulé

Abstract : The concept of territory seems to be largely absent from the literature on well-being. In the present study, the link between the territory and well-being is analyzed in the context of a rural area, the Morvan, in Burgundy (France). Through qualitative research-mostly interviews- this link is questioned and explored. The relationship between the territory and the actors inform us on several key-concepts often related to well-being: locus of control, mobility and identity. From an interactionist perspective, the relation between territory and actors seems to be a fertile ground to explore the latter's well-being. The present paper advocates for more research on the field.

Keywords : territory, well-being, identity, mobility

Conference Title : ICRSC 2017 : International Conference on Rural Sociology and Community

Conference Location : Prague, Czechia

Conference Dates : July 09-10, 2017