

Countering Terrorism through Social Media: Case Study in Indonesia

Authors : Mauly Budiyanti, Aisyah M. Anggiana

Abstract : Terrorism is a threat to national security since the war on terror era after the tragedy of 9/11. The shifting of national threat from military to non-military centric leads us to recognize that military action is not the only way to face and solve terrorism. Alongside the use of military action to counter terrorism, Indonesia has another way to counter it by using the role of social media. The role of social media on spreading positivity to counter terrorism has the power to show that people now are fearless toward terrorist attack because their goal is to make sure that people are threatened enough by the way they act. This is showing the emergence of the non-state actor has a big impact on national security, as well as pluralism, said about the involving of non-state actor on international events. In this paper, we will examine the role of social media in countering terrorism based on study case in Indonesia.

Keywords : Indonesia, national security, social media, terrorism.

Conference Title : ICNSS 2018 : International Conference on National Security Studies

Conference Location : Bangkok, Thailand

Conference Dates : February 08-09, 2018